International Ornithological Association

Founder Member COM-UK

Affiliated to the Confederation Ornithologique Mondiale

The Committee and Members of Dagenham & District Cage Bird Society would like to sincerely thank the International Ornithological Association (IOA) for their generous donation to this event.

The International Ornithological Association was formed in 1955 by the Roller canary fancy to enable them to contest their birds with their European neighbours. They went about this by first setting up an International body for their branch of the fancy, which they named "the Roller Canary Union", and then formed the Association to use as a vehicle from which they could stage International shows and also compete on the world stage. Under their control, in the first ten years they staged some seven International shows here in the UK.

Recognised by DEFRA as an approved ring supplier to the fancy, the association can supply rings to fanciers covering all species of birds – including British birds. Individual membership can be made through the appropriate office, Societies / Associations can seek affiliation through the office of the General Secretary, The Association is the joint member state belonging to the COM (Confederation Ornithologique Mondiale) and covers the whole of the United Kingdom.

If you're interested in becoming a member you can either print and complete their membership application which is available from their website or apply online at www.ioa-com-uk.org

Memberships costs £15 per year

(Membership start from 1st Jan until 31st Dec whenever you join in the year)

Membership Benefits :

- Your own membership & ID Code number for your COM-UK rings.
- The opportunity to exhibit at any show held under the COM auspices.
- Your birds transported to the Gouden Ring Show in Belgium.
- Your birds transported to the World Show and World Show Vets fee's paid.
- The IOA News Letter & Magazine.
- Being part of a Global organisation gives you contacts & friendships worldwide

More information about the IOA, their contact details or news of forthcoming events are available from their website:
