The President's Comments

I am sorry I didn't write anything in last month's Newsletter, but without the Club running it is hard for me to find things to write about. But I will give it a go. So if I can try so can you. So sit down and put pen to paper, even if it's only to tell us how this virus is affecting your life, not only with the birds, but your home life.

I don't have many birds but I have a Goldfinch and a Redpoll Cock. One of our Members had a few spare Fife Hens which he gave me so I am interested to see if I can get a few Mules.

Also I bought some Gouldians from James – 3 Cocks and a Hen. They were all in a flight. I didn't hold out any or much hope of them breeding, but just to see I knocked up two nest boxes of different sizes and shape. I was astonished to see one of the Cock Birds almost straight away gathering up nesting material but I never saw the Hen carrying any nesting material. He was in and out of the nest box constantly. After a while she started to disappear into a nest box for long periods. I must admit after a week or so I had to have a look. To my disbelief there were four eggs. So I didn't look again. Then one day the Hen was out in the aviary. When I looked at her closely she had an egg hanging from her rear end feathers. I caught her but the egg was just hanging there so I thought I'd check the other eggs which should have hatched by then. No luck they were still in the nest box, partly buried, but I hope she will have another go later.

So to the garden. In our small turning over the past few years we have had a lot of new neighbours (I think the old ones moved to get away from me). Having said that, the new neighbours were all young and have now had families. So I got to thinking about my front garden. I have always liked ornamental things so little by little I have changed the front garden into an “ornamental zoo” so the toddlers in the street can come in and look around and see what’s there. The other day one of the neighbours was standing there pointing out to her daughter the different animals, birds and butterflies that were hiding in the flowers (lovely). But it’s not only the children I see stopping and looking in the garden, it’s adults as well. So if it makes people smile and be happy in these sad times, I am happy as well.

While I am wittering on I must say thank you to Richard for all the information in the last Newsletter.

It will be nice to see the Club open again but unfortunately we do not know how long this will be.

So, for now, I wish you and your families well and hopefully will see you all soon. Stay well.
Pete

The Club Secretary’s Comments

In the 1990’s most of our members lived within a 5 mile radius of where the club had its meetings – Heath Park Hall, Rusholme Avenue, Dagenham, with 70% of its members living in Dagenham and 30% of its members living in the surrounding areas of Romford, Barking, Rainham and Ilford. Of course in the 1990’s we had other Bird Clubs still running in local areas such as Romford CBS, Barking CBS, Rainham CBS (Phoenix) which all had an overlapping membership shared with Dagenham CBS. The end of the 1990’s and early 2000’s saw a sharp decline in the number of bird clubs being able to maintain their status and by 2005 when the Bird Flu Pandemic hit the world not many clubs managed to survive it. To think back in the day nearly every London Borough had a bird club, close to 120 clubs within a 12 mile radius of the centre of London. As you can see from the photo of the London Inter Club Show Book 1954, there were 41 London clubs that took part in the show, sadly Dagenham CBS was not included but I'm sure you'll recognise some of the clubs that did take part, many of which are no longer in existence.

So where are we now? As you can see from the map our membership has widened geographically with members from as far as Northamptonshire, Deal in Kent, Alton in Hampshire and Colchester in Essex. In fact only 11 members live in Dagenham as of the 2019 membership. So the question may be how and why did Dagenham CBS evolve through this period when many clubs failed and fell away from the hobby. In 2019 the Club has kicked on again, recently relocating to a new venue, increasing its membership year on year and is seen by other clubs as a model for success and now in 2020, our 80th year, the world has been hit by the Coronavirus which will change the way we live for many years to come. What changes it makes to our hobby we will have to wait and see, but one thing is for sure, Dagenham CBS will be ready to open its doors when it's safe to do so.

Staging Fund

There's no change to the staging fund and the total stands at £1,105.00

If you or someone you know would like to help with a donation please get in touch, every little bit helps.

Update on New Staging

The committee has agreed to order 22 bays of show staging at a cost of around 120 euro per bay plus we will contribute to the expenses for collecting of the staging by Dave Rands in September, so we will have it for our Young Stock Show and Open Show.

Dagenham CBS – Information request

I am still looking to complete the Club's History on our Website and am missing information between the years 1979-1998 and 2006-2015. If anyone has got any information relating to the Club during these years, for example, news, photos, show results or any other information, would you please let me know? Other than these breaks in years I have researched and have found something for each year since 1935.

Copy of a Member's recent e-mail to Richard

Thank you for the continuing newsletters despite there not being any meetings. It's particularly pleasing when that envelope drops from the letter box onto the doormat. The familiar envelope and sticky label on its reverse are an immediate giveaway to its contents. Putting a newsletter together each month is not an easy task especially in these difficult times, but I believe it is still a great way to keep us all connected even though we are unable to have our regular meetings. Often in the newsletter members are asked if they would like to contribute articles, thoughts or any other comments on subjects that may interest them and the wider membership, rarely are any submitted. I know this to be true as I often compose the Basildon newsletter. I have detected frustration in some of your articles regarding the disappointment felt when other CBS's have failed to support Dagenham's annual show when Dagenham have given other annual shows so much support. I also could detect frustration with the "nil response" to the request for an exchange of phone numbers recently, but club members are as equally fickle as any group in society. I know on a personal level that I have spoken to many members and that those members have spoken to other members. The jungle drums are still beating, rest assured. Nevertheless I get the point about members who may have smaller social circles than ourselves needing to keep in contact.

These comments are in support of all of those that work so hard to make the club a success and not written as a criticism. Keep up the good work.

Back to the birds. I have kept Hawfinches for the past seven or eight years with varying degrees of failure!! Sadly I have not been able to breed any successfully, there's always been a disaster along the way. This year I witnessed a phenomenon with a pair of hawfinches that I have never seen before. The cock bird a 2019 bird went to the freshly replenished D cup and picked out a juicy fat wax moth lava and ate it, he then returned a second time and took another then hopped back onto the perch. The hen then joined him and the cock offered the wax moth to the hen, she took it eagerly and immediately disappeared to the back of the flight. The hen is much more of a nervous disposition than the cock. Nevertheless the hen returned to the perch beside the cock and presented the wax moth back to the cock after only nibbling the smallest portion of the wax moth. The cock then took the wax moth nibbled another tiny piece and presented it back to the hen. This happened eight to ten times before the single wax moth was gone. This is a great sign, as normally it's all about blood and broken feathers before one finally gains dominance over the other and settle prior to breeding. Fingers crossed

Paul Jupe

Thank you Paul for the comments about the Newsletters. They are much appreciated.
